Alcohol Survey Results Revealing

By Jim Ritchie and Elizabeth George

Recently a group of students administered a campus-wide survey on the alcohol use at UPS. During the week of March 29, 550 questionnaires were distributed to a wide cross-section of the UPS student body. 449 of those surveys were returned. The breakdown of those surveyed is as follows: 37% live on Union Avenue, 40.5% live in dorms and 22.5% live off-campus. A total of 220 men and 229 women were surveyed from all 4 academic classes. The percentages given in the statistics are based on the total number of students who participated in the survey, rather than those who answered that particular question.

In compiling the final results, three comparisons were made: male to female, Greek to dorm to off-campus, and freshman to sophomore to juniors to seniors. From the data accumulated the following statistics were recorded.

At UPS, 5.3% of the students surveyed said they never drink. A similar survey was taken at California Polytechnic State University in the mid-1970's. (Note: Cal Poly has a large percentage of commuters and only 2% of those surveyed live in fraternities or sororities.) The response there to the same question was an 11% total abstention. In February 1966, Gallup Poll revealed that on the national level, 35% of the total population above the age of 21 abstain from drinking. This figure coincides with figures from other national surveys, but this figure is higher than the age group represented by the UPS student population. UPS students also attend more parties than do the students at Cal Poly. 69.1% of the UPS students go to 3 or more parties a month while only 28% of Cal Poly's students attend the same number.

Comparing the drinking habits of males to females it was found that 3.6% of the males abstain from drinking while 5.7% of the females abstain. Twice as many men as women said they would be offered a drink if they went to a close friend to discuss a problem or would offer a drink to a close friend who came to discuss a problem with them. Men also drink more. Men drink four times as much beer as women a week while both sexes drink about the same amounts of wine and liquor. This is interesting because women prefer wine and liquor twice as much as men do. Men attend more parties a month than women. 41.4% of the men go to 5 or more a month compared to 22.3% for the women. Men drink more, but they also worry more about their drinking. 5% of the men said they frequently worry about the long range consequences of their drinking and only 2.2% of the women expressed the same concerns.

Greek and Off-campus students drink twice as much as do students who live in the dorm. Even though Greek and Off-campus students tend to drink the same amounts, 87.4% of the Greeks attend 3 or more parties a month while only 75.6% of the Off-campus students and 48% of the Dorm students go to the same number of parties. 41.7% of the Greeks also say that their present living situation has increased their use of alcohol while 25.6% of the Off-campus students and 38.2% of the Dorm students agree.

It was also found that Seniors drink more than Juniors and Juniors more than sophomores with Freshmen drinking the least. But all four groups attend approximately the same number of parties a month.

This alcohol survey was administered as a group project by seven students from a C&TA 202 class. The idea for this project came about because of the group's concern with the UPS communities alcohol use and or abuse. The purpose of this survey and article is not to condone or approve any one individual's use of alcohol, but only to make aware that alcohol plays a part in most student's stay on this campus.

Renowned Scientific Scholar to Give Commencement Address

Dr. Cyril Ponnamperna, one of the world's leading authorities on the origin of life will deliver the commencement address for the 94th University of Puget Sound spring commencement.

Drawing on his extensive investigation of life on the other planets as well as the Earth, Dr. Ponnamperna will discuss, "Are We Alone In The Universe?" The address will be held at UPM, May 21, in Kilworth Chapel, 18 h and Warner. Dr. Ponnamperna will receive an honorary degree of Doctor of Natural Science during the commencement exercises on Saturday, May 22, at 2PM in the UPS Memorial Fieldhouse.

The author of over 250 publications related to chemical evolution and the origin of life, he has written 14 books including The Origins of Life, and Cosmic Evolution. He serves on the editorial board of The Journal of Molecular Evolution, and is editor-in-chief of the international journal, Origins of Life. His experiments on the origin of life on this planet were the subject of a NOVA program in January and have been featured in the New York Times, Time, Newsweek, Omni, and Science News among others.

Over the past two decades, Dr. Ponnamperna and his associates at the Laboratory of Chemical Evolution of the University of Maryland have extended man's knowledge of origin of life-of life and in outer space. In 1979, working with a rock specimen from Greenland, Dr. Ponnamperna identified life forms existing on Earth more than 3.8 billion years ago. Pressing his discoveries further, he is currently preparing to investigate hydrothermal vents near the Galapagos Islands which may add millions of years to the history of the Earth.

Over the years, Dr. Ponnamperna and his associates have recreated the primordial atmosphere which sparked life on Earth. These experiments have produced a whole new body of chemical knowledge.

His analysis of specimens from various space flights and from a number of meteorites has established beyond doubt that there are chemical components for life on other planets.

Dr. Ponnamperna is a native of Sri Lanka and became a naturalized U.S. citizen in 1967. His early education was in his native country and India where he received a B.A. in Philosophy from the University of Madras. He also received a Bachelor of Science with Honors in Chemistry from Birkbeck College, the University of London, where he worked with J.D. Bernal, one of the earliest pioneers in the field of the origin of life.

Following his undergraduate work, he moved to this country and attended the University of California at Berkeley where he received his doctorate in Chemistry in 1962 under the direction of Professor Melvin Calvin.

Dr. Ponnamperna has been on the visiting faculties of many universities throughout the world including Stanford University, the University of Nijmegen in the Netherlands and the Sorbonne. In 1970, he was invited by the USSR Academy of Sciences to visit the Soviet Union as a guest lecturer.

In September, 1971, he joined the University of Maryland as Professor of Chemistry and Director of the Laboratory of Chemical Evolution. He teaches a graduate course on Chemical Evolution and an interdisciplinary undergraduate course on Cosmic Evolution. In 1967, he was a Phi Beta Kappa visiting scholar. In 1978, he was named a Distinguished Professor of the University of Maryland. In 1980, the International Society for the Study of the Origin of Life awarded him the first A.I. Oparin Medal for the "best sustained research program on the origin of life."

Dr. Ponnamperna is a member

To the Editor:

The Independent Students Association, or NZS from its Polish initials, emerged in Poland in September, 1980. Spurred by the Gdansk Agreement of August, 1980, a group of students formed the first organizing committee of NZS, whose membership quickly expanded to nearly 50,000 students. The Association became a major force in the battle for educational and scientific freedom, as well as a factor with which the authorities had to contend in the political arena in Poland.

Since its very beginning, NZS has been confronted with the destructive policies of the authorities who strove to prevent the realization of students' appeals, and it was forced on two occasions (February and November, 1981) to conduct occupying strikes which involved almost all Polish universities. During this period of activity, NZS benefited from the help as well as the close cooperation of the independent and self-governing trade union "Solidarnosc" (representatives of NZS held the status of observers in the regional branches of "Solidarity").

Last December our Association shared the fate of "Solidarity" when the life of the Polish nation was subjected to brutal oppression and repressions. On January 5th, the spokesman of the Military Council of National Salvation declared the dissolution of NZS. This step was preceded by the arrest of an estimated 500 Association members. We have in our possession a complete list of arrested persons. Many of them have already been sentenced by martial courts. Trials of the others are still being prepared. The authorities took advantage of the more than 2-month forced closing of the universities by expelling non-conforming thinkers, and drafting some of them into the army. All these barbarous measures are aimed at the destruction of academic life.

A group of Polish students, members of NZS denounced the declaration of the state of war against Polish people. Further, when the Military Council announced the dissolution of the NZS on January 5th, Association members refused to recognize this action.

Following these events, a group of 50 Polish students formed a Polish Independent Students Association in North America as a legally tax-exempt, non-profit organization in New York State.

We have incorporated ourselves as a legal institution in the United States in order to:

1) aid repressed students, scholars and intellectuals in Poland (financial aid for those arrested and expelled from schools, students and professors alike; organize and carry out actions in order that Polish students and professors are able to maintain contact with Western science and culture).

2) aid Polish students and scholars residing in North America and Western Europe who are unable to return to their homeland (provide legal and financial assistance to enable them to continue their studies).

Similar groups have been formed in France, Great Britain and Sweden. All these groups have the same goals, and activities will be coordinated internationally.

We have temporary quarters at Freedom House and the Graduate Center of City University of New York, and have applied to foundations for our second purpose, but we still need money to carry out our first goal.

The effectiveness of our activities will depend on the moral response and financial support for the cause that we represent.

Tax deductible contributions for this purpose should be made payable to Freedom House POLISH STUDENTS FUND, 20 West 40th Street, New York, NY 10018.

To the Editor:

Motivated by our concern for the future of students from Poland, victims of the current events in their country, we appeal to your University to take into account the circumstances which prevent them from submitting all documents normally required for admission.

Many of the Polish students who are now in this country were active members of the Independent Students Association (student solidarity movement). The Polish authorities suppressed this organization, and its active members, now abroad, cannot return home for fear of severe persecution.

The students who went abroad before the imposition of the Martial Law had no intention to remain abroad, and most of them left Poland without their scholastic records. Such records are now unobtainable. Postal communication has been cut off, universities refuse to release records, and many of the professors are in detention camps and cannot be reached to give personal references.

Until the situation in Poland changes, the students can only submit sworn personal statements describing their academic background and achievements. We respectfully urge you to waive your University's standard admission procedures and accept such statements in lieu of the presently unobtainable official scholastic documents and recommendation letters.

To the Editor:

Interaction and recreation are two important functions that a successful student union building should possess. Despite the building's presence on campus, its intended purpose fails to accommodate and serve student's needs. Comparing other college campuses and their facilities, it has been determined that the student union building is the focal point of student life. Holly Klokis, reporter for the College Union Magazine, wrote in the November 1981 issue, "The concept of a union is that it's the main place where people gather to share social, recreational, and educational experiences.

We, a group of concerned students, feel that the University of Puget Sound's SUB has failed to provide its potential services. A survey was conducted in order to obtain more information and substantiate our claim.

85% of the students polled felt that there is a definite need for change in the SUB. Some of the suggestions that appeared repeatedly were:

Recreation Room: ping-pong tables, billiards, video games, bowling alley, and ballroom.

General Aesthetics: furniture, curtains, carpeting, plants, etc.

After reviewing multiple survey comments, our beliefs coincided with one individual's opinion when he stated, "There is a definite need for revising the SUB. It needs to become a place where people can relax, have fun, and be sociable. Such a SUB would do much to bring the campus together and eliminate the lack of contact between the Greeks and the Independents.

Isn't it time the administration accept its responsibility to the students by providing an active, functional, and attractive area where the students can congregate?

VanArsdel Publishes Collection of Eliot Essays

By Julia Chester

Dr. Rosemary VanArsdel, Professor of English here at UPS has just co-edited a book comprised of essays written about the works of George Eliot. The book, entitled George Eliot, A Centennary Tribute was co-edited with Gordon S. Haight of Yale University, and includes thirteen selected papers that were delivered here at the UPS George Eliot Centennial Conference, held last April. The book, published by McMillan Company of London has just come out this April and will be distributed throughout the United States and around the world.

The papers published in the book were chosen for originality of material and uniqueness of viewpoint, and cover the wide range of Eliot's canon. They present new biographical insights, new critical approaches, and relay a diversity of ideas not presented before. Included in the essays is a paper written and presented by Florence Sandler, Professor of English here at UPS entitled "The Unity of Felix Holt."

Dr. VanArsdel who has instituted the idea of the Victorian conference and has organized others in the past, felt that the papers delivered at the George Eliot conference were valuable sources of information, and would make significant references for literary research. "We had more than 125 scholars on campus from all over the world. There were twenty-six papers delivered in three days, some delivered by some of the worlds great experts on Eliot. At the conclusion of the event we realized we had an important archive of information."

Dr. VanArsdel and Dr. Haight took their idea for a book of collected works to the McMillan publishing company in London last June, and were granted a contract. It will soon be published on the East coast.

The Eliot conference from which these papers were drawn occurred on the centennary of George Eliot's death. This conference was one of many symbolic tributes to Eliot. In the words of Dr. Haight Eliot's works turned the novel into an informative work rather than just the means for a trivial pastime, as novels had been characterized in the past; "the novel, too long a trivial pastime, became a compelling moral force, which has established George Eliot firmly in the heart of the Great Tradition with Jane Austen and Henry James."

Dr. VanArsdel too believes Eliot's works to be a major contribution to the educational prestige of the novel. "She turned the novel into an important moral force and in her book Danielle Deronda - her last novel - she addresses extremely modern problems, in terms of a woman's options in life and in terms of how these cause her to make important moral decisions. Scholars everywhere enjoy her for her wit, her humor, and the incomparable pictures she draws of English country life and customs.

VanArsdel went on to say that George Eliot was also the first British novelist to understand the psychological lives of her characters - a technique adopted by Henry James in his novels.

George Eliot, A Centennary Tribute is a major contribution to literature and a fine example of the quality of work that makes for lasting importance in the world of literature. Dr. VanArsdel expressed special thanks to the school and to the the Phibbs for their support of the Conferences. "It's important for UPS because the University's contribution in hosting the conference and its generous financial support in hosting the meetings has made a valuable contribution to literary scholarship on George Eliot."

Rodgers Gives Last Performance with Madrigals

6 May, 1982, p.7

The University Madrigal Singers closes the music performance season at the University of Puget Sound with an encore production of Dr. Leroy Ostransky's popular, comic chamber opera "The Melting of Molly."

The 18-member select vocal group, drawn from the Adelphian Concert Choir, presents the work Wednesday, May 12, at 8 pm in the Jacobsen Recital Hall at the UPS School of Music. Admission is free.

The performance is the final opportunity for Tacoma audiences to see the Madrigals' director and founder Dr. Bruce Rodgers in action after 30 years as the guiding force behind the Adelphians. Dr. Rodgers will retire following the group's seventh overseas tour, May 25 to June 22.

"The Melting of Molly" garnered the Tacoma Allied Arts Civic Achievement Award for Dr. Ostransky, who retired in 1980 after a 34-year teaching career at UPS.

Equated to Gilbert and Sullivan at the time of its world premier in April 1967, the comic chamber opera was written especially for the UPS stage. The original cast reunited for a September 1975 staging which was broadcast on King-TV in Seattle.

The plot of "The Melting of Molly" revolves around the traumas of a young lady who is desperately trying to reduce her waistline in an effort to cultivate the affections of a lean diplomat.

Madrigals members who head the 1982 cast are soprano Margaret McGee as Molly; alto Jennifer Crist as Velerie, the hat designer; and baritone David Gabbard as Allan, the doctor. Tenor Dr. Thomas Goleeke, head of voice studies at UPS, sings the role of Leonard, the diplomat.

The remaining Madrigal Singers function as a Greek chorus, acting as narrators and commenting on the action.

Senior Wendi Naplin provides the piano accompaniment.

Dr. Rodgers is musical director for the work and Dr. Goleeke is stage director.

Frequently called Tacoma's "music man," Dr. Ostransky has written more than 100 musical compositions, including five symphonies. His book, "The Anatomy of Jazz," is considered to be one of the most authoritative works on jazz ever published. In 1975, "People" magazine selected Dr. Ostransky as one of the 12 "great" professors in America.

Jazz Ensemble Performs at Inside Theatre

Up-tempo jazz and pop works will be featured during a concert by the University of Puget Sound Vocal Jazz Ensemble, Tuesday, May 11, at 8 pm at the Inside Theatre.

Performing with members of the University Jazz Band, the vocalists present a variety of solo, small group and full ensemble selections, including the Linda Williams-Natalie Cole tune, "La Costa," and four works by jazz great Kirby Shaw: "I Return to Music," "Doctor Jazz," "Brothers and Sisters" and "Love."

The ensemble's director, Stephen James, takes center stage for the second half of the program to perform jazz standards and pop works. A senior majoring in music and sociology at UPS, James is a member of the Adelphian Concert Choir and has performed widely in the area.

UPS student Ken French will accompany James on the piano. Inside Theatre is in Jones Hall at North 15th and Lawrence streets.

The 80-voice University Chorale performs the music of many eras for its third annual spring concert, Monday, May 10 at the University of Puget Sound.

The free concert with guest harpist Joyce Fankhauser of Seattle is scheduled for 8 pm in Kilworth Chapel, North 18th and Warner streets. The University Chorale is conducted by Dr. Thomas Goleeke, professor of music and head of voice studies at UPS.

Program works performed with instrumental accompaniment include Jennings' "Festival Alleluia," Gretchaninov's "Ave Verum," Thompson's "Choose Something Like a Star," Rutter's "Praise the Lord, O My Soul" and Brahms' "Vier Gesänge für Frauenchor, zwei Hörner und Harfe."

Fankhauser will be featured in "Variations on a Theme in Ancient Style" by Salzedo. The Chorale will conclude the concert with Mozart's "Missa Brevis, K. by Salzedo.

with student vocal soloists and instrumentalists.

Pianist for the concert program is Barbie Anderson.

Fankhauser is in her fifth season of performing with the Seattle Opera's Wagner Festival. She is a member of the Modern Harp Duo of Seattle and has appeared as a soloist, recitalist and accompanist throughout Washington State.

Ebert Awarded In Conference

A composition by Dr. Lawrence Ebert, professor of music at the University of Puget Sound, was awarded special recognition in the National Saxophone Workshop's 1981-82 contest, held in Nashville, Tenn.

The Tacoma composer's work, "Suite for Unaccompanied Alto Saxophone," was named among the top eight compositions by judges Marvin Lamb of Southern Methodist University, Robert Jager of Tennessee Technological University and Michael Charry, music director of the Nashville Symphony University.

A prolific composer, Dr. Ebert is professor of theory and composition at UPS and is chairman of the Music Theory Department. Among his other leading works are "Concerto for Violin and Orchestra," "Cantata for Chamber Ballet," "Three Paragraphs for Flute and Piano" and "Overture for Orchestra." The latter composition received third prize at the 1980-81 Northwest Composers Symposium.

El Salvadorean editor speaks on turmoil

By Julia Chester

Enrique Altamirano, editor and publisher of El Salvador's largest newspaper El Diario De Hoy, spoke in the UPS Sub last Wednesday about the political turmoil in El Salvador.

Since 1979 terrorist uprisings have killed 30,000 people. Some 500,000 Salvadorans have fled the country and 400,000 internal refugees have been forced to flee to other areas of the country with only a small percentage of those fleeing to guerilla territory.

Mr. Altamirano blamed the source of El Salvador's problems as arising from economic reforms imposed by the junta and backed by the United States and other Western countries, claiming that the economy has been set back by 45%. "There has been a reduction in crops, economic activity, and commerce. The country cannot pay its bills. We need assistance from the outside, especially the United States."

Though these figures paint a bleak picture Mr. Altamirano said that civilians were trying to get on with their lives. As an example, on March 25 of this year 85% of those qualified to vote did so in spite of widespread terrorism, 2 mile voting lines, and five hour waiting lines in the blazing sun. The majority of the voters even rejected the notion that a civil war was taking place, which is telling evidence that the present uprising is not a popular one.

Despite the startling figures Mr. Altamirano stated that people in peaceful countries such as ours could not comprehend the meaning of a terrorist uprising. "Terrorism is in our daily lives. It is burning and bombing of factories, bombing of buses (200 to date), and destruction of power lines. Whole cities have been kept without electricity for a month. There has also been destruction of crops and farm machinery."

He went on to sight the abduction and murders of prominent business men and the poisoning of city water supplies.

Putting the incidents in El Salvador in a larger scope, Altamirano claimed that the troubles were only the beginning of a subversive movement designed to target and control the Caribbean. "Terrorism follows lines of Soviet and Cuban influence. Terrorism is the new weapon in war waged against the West, since WWII." He explained it as a process which began in Cuba. "Since the early 1960's Cuba has tried to develop subversion in the Caribbean and Latin America. (In the late 60's Castro's allies were sent to start a revolt in Bolivia.) This process went on for many years. They have infiltrated universities, church groups, teachers, armies, and business sectors. But they could not infiltrate the masses of El Salvador as the elections show. The guerilla's have never been able to transcend the terrorist stage."

Not until Nicaragua's fall in 1979 was El Salvador plagued with full scale guerilla warfare. But as Altamirano explained it the terrorist have not been able to take any town of sizeable proportions, because guerillas need acceptance into homes to be protected. "People close their houses and then the army has the job of flushing the streets of the town."

Altamirano brought the scope of his topic to the conclusion that the United States will be put in dangerous jeopardy should terrorism continue to spread and establish strong holds. "The spreading Cuban influence is trying to menace Venezuela and Guatemala. The end goal of the expansion is to go into Mexico to establish a nation next to the US that is hostile. . . we are the underbelly of the US and are an area of great strategic importance. Most of your oil and minerals go through the Caribbean region or is processed there. That reality is seen by Soviets and they are therefore trying to capture the Caribbean."

Hearst Foundation Gives Grant For Writing

A $10,000 grant from The Hearst Foundation, Incorporated, has been received by the University of Puget Sound. This fund supplements the Hearst Endowment for Writing established last year through a grant from the same foundation.

President Philip M. Phibbs announced that the University will use this latest grant to create a series of annual awards to be known as The Hearst Writing Prizes. He said, "These prizes will recognize publicly the importance the University places on writing in every phase of our undergraduate curriculum."

Eight prizes will be awarded for the first time next spring distributed among all academic departments: two to students in the natural sciences and mathematics; two in the social and behavioral sciences; one in the humanities and the arts; two in the main campus professional schools, Business and Public Administration, Occupational and Physical Therapy, Music and Education; and one in the Freshman Writing Seminar.

Selection of the prize winners will be made by a faculty committee in each of the academic areas using criteria established within that discipline. The award for the student in the Freshman Writing Seminar will be based on improved writing performance.

In the past the San Francisco based foundation has also funded a symposium at the University of Puget Sound entitled "In Celebration of the Written Word" which brought to the campus more than a dozen writing experts including Willard Espy.

Union Pacific Gives $50,000 To UPS Law School

A 50,000 grant from the Union Pacific Foundation has been received by the University of Puget Sound designated for the Norton Clapp Law Center.

In making the announcement of the grant, President Philip M. Phibbs stated, "This timely grant from the Union Pacific Foundation completes the first segment of the fund raising goal set for the Law Center as part of a $1,000,000 Centennial Campaign."

"The award stands as a symbol of the Union Pacific's support for the revitalization efforts in downtown Tacoma and the University's part in it," he added.

This is the largest single grant ever made by the Union Pacific in Pierce County. The funds will be used to defray operating costs of the Law Center located in the heart of the redevelopment area of downtown Tacoma.

Foundation Awards Fuchs Grant

A $10,000 grant from the Gottfried and Mary Fuchs Foundation has been received by the University of Puget Sound. President Philip M. Phibbs noted that this is the second grant from the Fuchs Foundation providing scholarship aid to students from the South Puget Sound region.

Ten incoming freshmen from Pierce, Thurston, Kitsap and South King County will benefit from this grant, each receiving a need-based $1,000 scholarship.

Hoard Granted Fellowship at Cornell

Amy Hoard, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James E. Hoard of Tacoma has been named the Newton C. Farr Fellow at Cornell University. A senior majoring in history at the University of Puget Sound, Amy will receive a bachelors degree magna cum laude this month.

The Fellowship bears a stipend of $11,500 per year and is designated for study in American History. Amy will concentrate on American 19th Century social history. The history department at Cornell is renowned for its center on American studies.

A graduate of South Eugene High School in 1978, Amy has distinguished herself at UPS. She was named a Trustee Scholar each of the four years, elected to Phi Kappa Phi, the national honors society and selected for the Dean's List in January.

Her fiancé, William Kinsel, will also begin graduate study at Cornell this fall. A summer wedding is planned.

Phyllis Jestice, who will graduate as a Coolidge Otis Chapman Honors Scholar and summa cum laude this month at the University of Puget Sound, has received two more national honors.

In addition to the Laura H. Cunningham Fellowship she received from UPS earlier this year, she has been awarded a four year, fully funded scholarship to Stanford University to study medieval history. It bears a stipend of $12,000 per year. In an unusual move, Stanford deferred the start of the scholarship until she completes the Cunningham travel fellowship in Europe.

The most recent honor for Miss Jestice is the receipt of a $4,500 Phi Kappa Phi Graduate Fellowship. The national competition for this honor is extremely rigorous and the winners are among the finest scholars in the nation.

Miss Jestice is the daughter of Donil and Gwendolyn Jestice of Tacoma.

I FEEL RIDICULOUS TOO...BUT WE'VE TRIED EVERYTHING ELSE...

Two hundred Juris Doctor degrees will be conferred during the University of Puget Sound School of Law's eighth annual spring commencement exercises on Saturday, May 15.

The graduating law students hail from 36 states, the District of Columbia, and Canada.

The commencement ceremonies, which begin at 2 p.m., will be held outdoors on the main UPS campus in the quadrangle between Jones Hall and the Music building, North 15th Street and Union Avenue. In the event of inclement weather, the events will be relocated to the Fieldhouse, North 11th and Union Avenue.

ATTENTION:
Senate budget hearing will be held on Wed. May 12th, in Mc 106 at 5:30. Everyone is welcome!

Logger Crew Victorious

The Logger Crews made history on Sunday when they were victorious in all three Trophy Races in their annual dual meeting with PLU.

The Womens Varsity 8 started the day with a boat length victory over the Lutes, taking home the Lambreth Cup for the first time ever. The womens 8 covered the 1000 meters in 3:36.11 in a slight head wind. PLU's time was 3:39.61. The womens 8 has been steadily improving all season and the boating has remained the same for the last three races, Bow Candy Mac Rae, 2 Candy Rogers, 3 Susan Hodder, 4 Charlene Meek, 5 Allison Cawdrey, 6 Ann Stevens, 7 Claudia Niccoli, Stroke Vall Rullman and Cox Laura Lee.

The Mens Alumni 8 continued the string with their first victory in the Neils Cup. The margin of victory was the closest of the day, about two feet with the Logger Alums at 6:55.75 and PLU at 6:56.2 for the 2000 meter course.

The Mens Varsity 8 put the capper on the day with their first ever, third consecutive victory for the Meyer Cup. The margin of victory was the largest in the last three years, one full boat length plus about 10 feet of open water. The Loggers rowed the 2000 meters in 6:32.66 to PLU's 6:37.14. The Mens Varsity 8 boating was Bow Bill Patton, 2 Tim Prasil, 3 John Bronson, 4 Phil Drews, 5 Hunter Bancroft, 6 Pete Jackson, 7 Paul Andrews, Stroke Scott Gulick and Cox Randy Dolan.

The Loggers now look forward to the Regional Championships to be held next weekend in Seattle. The 1982 team is the strongest ever for the Loggers, and should make a good showing in the events they will enter. The Women will be entering Varsity 8, Novice 8, Novice 4 and Light 4 crews. The Men will enter Varsity 8, Heavy 4, Light 4 and Junior Varsity 4. "I'm really looking forward to this Regionals," stated coach Al Lawrence, "we will be able to enter solid contenders in all eight events."

Golfers: Best Season Ever

By John Bain

The UPS golf team now awaits a bid to the NCAA national championship. The National Committee is due to send out bids sometime this week and judging from the teams past performance they seem to have little choice in the matter. In this past season the golf team has won, among others, the Northwest Classic Collegiate Invitational, Willamette Invitational, and the Central Washington University Invitational. In addition, the team has been the top qualifier for the Northwest Coaches Conference Tournament to take place in Yakima on May 10th.

The varsity golf team under the coaching supervision of Jack Ecklund is comprised of four juniors, one sophomore, and one freshman. These are Doug Doxsie, Ken Greenway, Doug Hearn, Rich Ross, Drew Wakefield, and Mike Anderson respectfully. According to team members this has been their best season ever. They see next season as even better in view of the fact that all of them will return for next year's season with greater experience.

On an individual level, Doug Doxsie has put in an exceptional performance. He was the top point qualifier for the Northwest Coaches Conference Tournament and has accumulated two first place finishes and four second place finishes in college tournaments. Only one vote away from an individual bid to nationals last year, he is likely to be a shoe-in this year.

The team plays about ten tournaments each season with each lasting 2 days. To get to these tournaments the golf team has a small travel budget from which to draw funds. They raise all other monies through alumni and individual contributions. Because NCAA Division II rules don't allow much scholarship to be doled out, only Doug Doxsie is on a partial scholarship.

Trustees Consider Sports Scholarships

The Board of Trustees of the University of Puget Sound, at its meeting on May 1, reviewed and unanimously reaffirmed its May 1981 decision to develop a need-based scholarship program for all intercollegiate athletics except men's basketball and swimming. Comparable no-need financial aid will be provided women's intercollegiate athletics.

According to Norton Clapp, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, the University can no longer afford to maintain its football program at the NCAA Division II level in the face of rapidly escalating costs and the University's commitment to comply fully with the spirit and letter of Federal Title IX regulations.

The trustees further authorized the President and Athletic Director to seek membership in the Evergreen Conference for its football program. The Evergreen Conference is made up of Western Washington University, Central Washington University, Simon Fraser University, Eastern Oregon State College, Oregon Institute of Technology, Southern Oregon State College and Western Oregon State College.

In a related action, the Board of Trustees approved the University of Puget Sound joining as a charter member of the Great Northwest Conference, an NCAA Division II basketball conference. Conference charter members include the University of Alaska at Fairbanks, the University of Alaska at Anchorage, Eastern Washington University, Eastern Montana College and Seattle Pacific University.

Dean David Dodson Decides Drinking Doesn't Deter Daily Duties

Dean Dodson under intense pressure from all quarters has today announced his intention to repeal all regulations regarding the alcohol policy in toto for that time remains in this Spring Semester. Said Dodson, "With what's been happening in the Falklands, it's only a matter of time 'til their all drafted anyway. If they're old enough to die for their country, surely they can drink for it too."

After looking for another authoritative source to quote and failing miserably, we settled on Professor Paul Heppe of the Politics and Government department who was quoted as saying, "Eat, Drink, and be Merry." Dr. Heppe found at a dinner party and found day "Kegger" being held at the residence of one Phil Phibbs in honor of the repeal was unable to be revived for any further comment. President Phibbs was indisposed at the time, his secretary informed us, being tied up at the moment by Gwen in a summit meeting taking place in their bedroom.

Cynthia Tate interviewed soon after the Dean of Students decision was visible pleased by what she termed "a pleasant turn of events." Said Tate, "Many new possibilities have opened up for us concerning Logger Weekend. We've always had difficulty emptying the kegs for the keg toss event. This year we'll just make it a part of the contest that you have to chug the keg before you toss it."

Reagan Whines When Argentina Won't Play Fair!

President Ronald Reagan has called both houses of Congress together for an emergency session. The purpose of which is to vote on a declaration of war to be declared on Argentina for "hitting below the belt."

The action said to have precipitated this move occurred in the wee hours of Wednesday the fifth of May when an Argentine submarine S.S. Eva Perone successfully torpedoed the U.S.S. Lord Jim, a tugboat working out of the Bremerton shipyards. While the Argentine government has been quick to apologize to this "rather unfortunate incident" blaming in on faulty plumbing in their attack submarine, Mr. Reagan has been quick to dismiss their explanations. Citing the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, the German invasion of Poland, and according to Reagan, the Russian invasion of virtually every place else, he was heard to say what will undoubtedly go down in the history as the greatest statement of his term.

"Fooled me once, shame on you.

Fooled me twice, shame on me."

Secretary of State, Alexander Haig was unavailable for comment, being as it were on a peace keeping mission aboard the U.S.S. Nimitz flagship of task force 77 steaming toward Argentina.
